kalaha mancala strategy big board

Mancala Kalaha large strategy wooden box with wooden balls made of monkey pod wood Thailand

Kalah, also called Kalaha or Mancala, is a game in the mancala family invented by William Julius Champion Jr in 1940. Mancala is a family of board games played around the world, sometimes called "sowing" games, or "count-and-capture" games, which describes the game-play. Mancala games play a role in many African and some Asian societies comparable to that of chess in the West, or the game of Go in Eastern Asia. Kalaha is a form of the popular board game Mancala family, and it's probably the game you're thinking about when you say "Mancala." Kalaha is easy to learn and fun to play. Play it and experience the fun of counting with tactics ..

Rating: Not Rated Yet
Price
Sales price 480,00 ?

Ask a question about this product

Manufacturer

Units in box: 1

Reviews

There are yet no reviews for this product.